I want to learn how to become a great writer, but it's so difficult! Why is it so easy for others to just sit down and write a 5 page paper with great points, but when it comes to me total blank. I rather speak verbally speak about the topic than write about. It took me about 6 hours to write about nothing that included 1 paragraph. I'm too much of a broad thinker... and it's so hard for me to capture my target audience. Maybe it's me?
