
Summer Fun

Posted by: Glenda

on Apr 06, 2013

Tagged in: Untagged

It was one hot summer day in the middle of July. When my daughter, her husband and children came over to spend to with me and her father. When we all decided to go swimming in the pool. When David my son came over and suggested we played Marco polo in the pool. Which the macro person has to have their eyes closed at all times. The polo people or the not it person has to try not to get tagged. During the game my daughter husband Tommy was macro he decided to jump and dive for the polo people. While doing that he jumped and dove right out of the pool. We all laughed and then we still played the game. Even though he did not tag any one he was still it. That was the game of Marco polo in the pool on a hot day.